SHIP CAPTAIN TELLS OF SEIZURE

'I SAW A MACHINE GUN AIMED AT ME'

What happened that night in the Caribbean when the liner Santa Maria was seized by Portuguese rebels? Here is the story as told by the ship's captain, to Morris W. Rosenberg of The Associated Press.

By CAPT. MARIO SIMOES MAIA
RECIFE (AP)—At approximately 1:30 a.m. on Jan. 22, a frightened sailor of my ship came running to my cabin to report that some passengers were taking hostile action on the bridge. He said they had apparently seriously wounded the third officer, who was the pilot on the bridge at the time, and an apprentice officer with him.

I went up toward the bridge. When my eyes reached the level of the bridge floor I saw a man standing in the door across the bridge aiming a machine-gun at me.

I quickly dropped down the steps and ran into my cabin. Locking the door and cutting off the lights, I called the engine room to halt the engines.

I started to leave by a side door of my cabin when I saw through the glass door an officer lying on the deck covered with blood. I thought he was dead until I noticed a leg moving.

When I started out the door to try to pull him into the cabin, I saw a man aiming a rifle at me. I locked myself in the cabin and in the dark, by counting the holes of my telephone, tried to telephone the crew to have them armed with bars or anything for weapons.

None answered in the crew rooms because at that time they all were lying on the decks with guns pointed at their heads.

In another section, the officers' quarters, a man armed with a machine-gun knocked on an officer's door. When the officer opened the door, the man fired a machine-gun burst at him but by a miracle missed. The officer kicked the door shut. The man fired another burst through the door, again missing the officer, but the bullet marks are still there.

Lumumba Men Trap UN Force

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—More than 1,500 pro-Lumumba troops ambushed and encircled an isolated United Nations unit in Kivu Province today.

Castro Fires 120 Judges

HAVANA (AP)—In a sweeping purge of Cuba's courts, Fidel Castro's government early today fired 120 judges throughout the island to assure a more "revolutionary" application of justice.

The jurists were charged with a counter-revolutionary attitude and immoral conduct.

One of the Castro regime's chief complaints against the courts was that they repeatedly awarded owners of seized properties compensation which the government contended was too high.

One Supreme Court justice, the presidents of six provincial courts of appeal, 26 appeals magistrates and 87 other judges came under the axe, which fell for the second time in two months.

Threat to 'Disarm' Means War—Mobutu

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—Army strongman Gen. Joseph Mobutu today accused the United Nations of wanting to disarm the Congolese army and said that any attempt to do so "means war."

The army commander-in-chief told a press conference: "We will never allow it. Mr. Hammarskjöld is playing with fire. To disarm means war between the Congolese army and the UN."

Mobutu denounced Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's appeal to the security council for the UN to be allowed to "reorganize" the Congolese army.

Foreign Minister Justin Bombo, also at the press conference, charged that the chief UN representative in The Congo, Rajeshwar Dayal of India, has favored "rebel" supporters of imprisoned premier Patrice Lumumba in Kivu and Oriental provinces "by his inactivity."

The United Nations says there is a danger of civil war. But it is they who have created that danger."

Bombo backed Mobutu's statements that the UN so far had offered no military aid to the Congo as had been requested.

Bombo went on to declare that the Congo never would allow itself to be divided in two as the UN seemed to want.

Gen. Indarjit Rikhye, Hammarskjöld's Congo military adviser, said before his departure for New York this week that UN troops would be placed between the rival Mobutu and Lumumba forces grouped on the borders of Oriental and Equator provinces.

ARMS SNEAKED ABOARD LINER IN COFFIN

LISBON (Reuters)—Arms used by the band of Portuguese rebels to seize the liner Santa Maria were smuggled aboard in a coffin, the newspaper Diario de Notícias says today.

The newspaper reports from Recife, Brazil, that weeping women of Spanish nationality accompanied the coffin to the ship when the Santa Maria stopped at Laguaira, Venezuela. They said it contained a body being sent back to Europe for burial.

Fleming Scheme 'Jiggery-Pokery'

OTTAWA (CP)—J. W. Pickersgill (L—Bonavista-Twillingate) said in the Commons today a customs tariff amendment proposed by Finance Minister Fleming opens the way to political favors for friends of the government at election time.

He termed it "jiggery-pokery" and said it entailed giving the government far wider executive powers in peacetime than were ever sought by the late C. D. Howe for wartime emergency.

The proposal is to give Revenue Minister Nowlan power to decide with persons involved, having no right of appeal to the courts—what is the normal level of consumption of Canadian-produced goods when deciding whether imported goods should face a higher rate of tariff.

Mr. Nowlan described Mr. Pickersgill's arguments as "arrant nonsense"—without one semblance of fact."

Lotteries Advocated

OTTAWA (CP)—A government lottery to provide money to boost hospital facilities in Canada was advocated today by the international railway brotherhoods.

U.K. Homes Flooded

SOUTHAMPTON (Reuters)—Thirty homes were flooded at Hayling Island near this English port today when waves crashed over the sea wall.

Embassy Stoned

ROME (AP)—Thousands of students hurled rocks at police around the Austrian embassy today in the second day of demonstrations stemming from Italy's dispute with Austria on the south Tyrol. Three students and 15 police were injured and 40 demonstrators were arrested.

GAGLARDI GETS 'LAST WORD'

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi will be the final speaker in the throne speech debate in the Legislature.

Government whip Bert Price said today the highways minister will be the windup speaker next Thursday afternoon.

A spokesman for the ship's owners said American passengers would be flown back to the United States at the company's expense and the Santa Maria would sail for Lisbon after a cleanup and minor repairs.

Galvao had hoped to sail again after disembarking the

We've hidden all our valuables.
Still no idea where we're going.

EIGHTH DAY

Nothing new. Everybody's terribly bored.
Learned name of leader—Capt. Galvao. He's a slender, quiet man of about 62. He seems quite cultured, but suffers from acute fixation.

It was a beautiful day. We tossed bottles overboard with messages asking for help.

What a chance.

There was a rumor we were going to Ghana.

NINTH DAY

No planes today although a couple of passengers talked to one plane last night and told them we were all safe.

TENTH DAY

Older passengers terribly nervous. Pirates have now begun repeating the movies.
Every time there's gunplay, the pirates all grin and clap. We've got our bags packed.

Pirates patrol decks day and night now, always armed. Five crew members have joined them. Eight of them occupy tables next to mine at dinner, often keeping their revolvers in sight throughout the meal.

Some of them made passes at the girls.
Some of the Americans are supporting Galvao. It disgusts me. They say he's an underdog. Not here, he's not.

I wish these champions of the underdogs would quit giving me lectures while the underdogs are jamming their guns into my kidneys.

Capt. Galvao gave us a talk. He told us: "So far we have treated you real fine. Have we robbed you or raped your women?"

A Spanish passenger leaped up, shouting: "Try raping our women and I'll stop you; even if it means my life." One of the pirates made a move toward his gun, but stopped and stamped out.

ELEVENTH DAY

Land—Small tugs cruised around the ship as we approached Brazil. Capt. Galvao kept trying to dodge them.

The destroyer came near and the U.S. admiral came aboard. Galvao was still playing the big shot.

The pirates are insisting they'll sink the ship before surrendering her.

A Spanish passenger started to scuffle with another passenger. The pirates fell on him. Galvao stopped the fight.

Galvao ordered: "Shoot that man." They didn't. They knew now they were licked.

I was in my cabin when I heard my name being shouted. I rushed to the rail and there were two men and a red-headed girl in a tug yelling for me.

They said they were from a Canadian newspaper and wanted to know how I was doing. It was the first I had known anyone in Canada cared. We yelled at each other and they even made me laugh asking if there were any shipboard romances. Then they were shooed away.

TWELFTH DAY

The day began with a full-scale riot. Dishes were smashed and windows broken. Then the Brazilian admiral came aboard. We thought this was just another delay.

Then the ship began to edge into the harbor.

Suddenly, 11 days of this hell ship were over.

This was our moment. Freedom—wonderful.

CAPTAIN'S STORY

of the ship. When a crew member moved past the guard in one section the guard would inform the guard in the next about the man's task.

I went to the bridge a few times near the coast of Brazil. Each time I heard guns being cocked. We were under that kind of situation until the ship anchored in the harbor.

Once in here under the protection of Brazilian authorities I told Capt. Galvao that all officers and crew had reached a decision: Since the ship was now in a Brazilian port, we would all prefer to die together than sail out again with him and his men.

We had already had noisy demonstrations among the passengers near Recife protesting the situation. During one demonstration, one of the passengers was hit and thrown against a window, breaking the glass.

The decision of the ship's crew disoriented Galvao's force completely. Although they wanted to use force against the crew they did not because Brazilian authorities, including the captain of the port and Admiral Dias Fernandes himself, were aboard.

Galvao himself thought about disembarking all passengers and members of the crew who were not necessary to the operation of the ship, and leaving aboard the technicians necessary for moving the ship in hopes it could leave the harbor again.

But we maintained the firm decision that everybody aboard would disembark or die.

Thanks to the conversations of the two admirals (Brazilian and American) Galvao had to face the evidence of facts and permit total disembarkation.

I admire and am profoundly grateful to the passengers. They declared—the Americans in particular—that they would not disembark from the ship if the crew did not also disembark.

During the time of the ship's seizure we tried various ways to force them to dock in any port because of the poor control of the ship. We threw water into the sea and left the faucets on all night.

Any work we did was done under gunpoint. The radio messages Galvao sent to Russia, Bulgaria and all points of the world were transmitted under gunpoint, but even so the operators transmitted only one out of 10.

* * *

We could never count with certainty the number of Galvao's followers aboard. Galvao claimed about 100 but we could only count about 60, including five members of the crew—four men and a 15-year-old boy. The rest of the crew maintained a loyalty which I have rarely had the privilege of seeing.

There were 16 to 20 Portuguese among Galvao's men. The rest were Spaniards, Venezuelans and Cubans. Some had recently come from Russia, having been trained in Russian brigades. They had been in Cuba with Fidel Castro.

If all had been Portuguese this could vaguely be considered a political matter. But the majority were not Portuguese. This was an authentic case of piracy.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Stealing from parking meters brought six-month jail sentences for two Victoria men—but one of them was suspended today by Magistrate William Ostler.

Wayne Winston Wood was given the suspended sentence after Magistrate Ostler said mixing with bad companions was chiefly to blame for Wood's "irresponsible conduct."

Thursday, Grant Gordon Hunter was sent to jail for the same offense after Magistrate Ostler said Hunter's probation report was "most unsatisfactory."

A meeting of British Columbia Retired Employees' Association will be held at Norway House, Hillside Avenue, Monday at 2 p.m.

B.C. READY 'ANY TIME' ON COLUMBIA—BENNETT

B.C. will welcome discussions with Finance Minister Fleming on Columbia River financing at any time the federal minister sets, Premier Bennett said Thursday.

The date for such talks, he said, "is up to the visitor—we as the hosts, don't set the date."

He was commenting on Mr. Fleming's statement in the Commons in which the federal minister said he has asked Mr. Bennett to meet with him soon to conclude an agreement for financing the $458,000,000 Columbia project.

B.C., of course, will co-operate to help the federal government carry out treaty obligations on the Columbia. But we expect the cost of Canada's share of downstream benefits will not exceed the 3.77 mills promised by the Hon. Mr. Fulton so many times," the premier said.

LIBERAL WARNS BLACK

'All is Well' Try Won't Be Believed

If Welfare Minister Wesley Black says "all is well" in his department the public will not believe him, a Liberal MLA said in his maiden speech to the Legislature Thursday.

Harry McKay of Fernie also attacked the Workmen's Compensation Board for being arrogant. His over-all address was well received.

He said there is no doubt that social welfare service have deteriorated, referring to statistics disclosed since the resignation of child welfare superintendent Ruby McKay (no relation) over what she called restrictive government policy.

"We want to know the reasons for it; and secondly what is he going to do about it?" said Mr. McKay.

FIRST CRITICISM

Of Mr. Black: "I hope he doesn't try and say 'all is well', because people will not believe him and he will be suggesting himself up against Miss McKay."

Mr. McKay's attack on the Compensation Board was first of this session. In the past year there has been a mounting tide of criticism of both. One of the sorest points is that many applicants have been forced into costly court cases to try to win compensation.

"We can do with a lot less arrogance at the top of that board," said Mr. McKay.

PROCEDURE OUTMODED

He charged that appeal procedure is outmoded and called for an upgrading of pensions awarded some years ago. The loss of a man's leg should not be worth more today than it was a few years ago, he said.

VANCOUVER GOES WILD

Oriana Given 'The Works'

By HAL JONES
Times Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER — One of the most spirited welcomes ever accorded a ship was given the P. and O. Orient liner Oriana when she arrived here Thursday on her maiden voyage.

Thousands of spectators crammed vantage points in Stanley Park and on the docks for a glimpse of the giant 42,000-tonner as she moved majestically up the harbor towards her berth.

ROYAL WELCOME

As Oriana approached Lions Gate Bridge she was met by a flotilla of harbor craft, fishing boats, yachts and cruisers. Some estimates placed the number of welcoming vessels as high as 100. About a dozen aircraft, including a helicopter, buzzed overhead.

Boats whistled and tooted in welcome and once or twice Oriana replied with a deep-throated bellow from her fog horn.

On the dockside were civic dignitaries, two bands and a choir of 150 junior high school girls.

The girls laid on a surprise welcome for Australian song

'MEANEST THIEF'

TORONTO (CP)—Harold K. Sergeant, 39, of Moose Jaw, Sask., was convicted Thursday of stealing $1,100 which a double amputee was saving to buy a pair of artificial legs. He was remanded until Feb. 16 for sentence.

Police testified Sergeant met Frank Lebovitch, an employee of the crippled children's workshop, in a downtown bar Saturday. Lebovitch showed Sergeant the money and as the two men left the bar Sergeant pushed the amputee to the ground and grabbed the money.

Lebovitch, 50, said earlier he had saved the money from his $40-a-week job over the last two years. He lost his legs below the knee in an industrial accident.

MPs in Angry Uproar
On Unemployment Issue
(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—Question period in the House of Commons is supposed to be a non-partisan time when cabinet ministers explain government policy in response to pressing queries from individual MPs. Thursday it produced scenes of near-bedlam.

A question by Liberal front-bencher Paul Martin—dealing with unemployment—touched off an angry, noisy dispute that went on for nearly 15 minutes and turned the House into turmoil.

It was the most complete and bitter wrangle the Commons has seen since Parliament opened Nov. 17, and was played out to a full audience that included hundreds of labor leaders from across Canada.

Mr. Martin, MP for Essex East, began a question addressed to Labor Minister Starr, by asserting that the minister had tried to shift responsibility for unemployment from the government to organized labor and business management.

New Policy Denied
Mr. Martin claimed Mr. Starr had declared a new government policy when he urged earlier Thursday that labor and management get together on equal terms to seek a solution to Canada's jobless problem.

How, asked Mr. Martin, did the labor minister reconcile this "strange, new hypothesis" with promises the government made during the 1958 election campaign that it would maintain full employment.

When Mr. Starr rose to deny he had announced a new policy, and to charge that Mr. Martin had made utterances detrimental to the Canadian labor movement, the battle was joined.

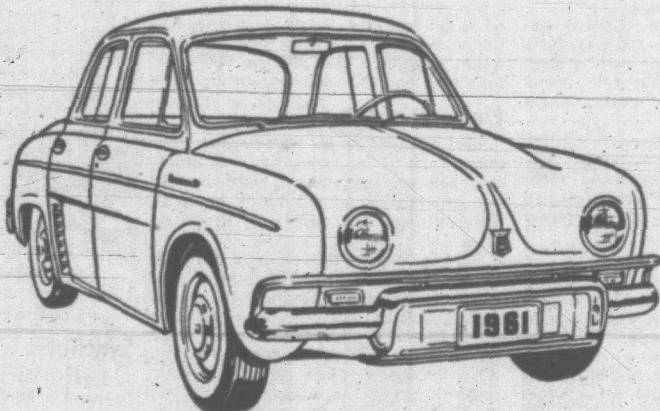

Finally, Speaker Roland Michener succeeded in restoring an uneasy calm by suggesting that both sides withdraw the more unparliamentary things they had said about one another.

R.B.'s Ghost Walks

The ghost of R. B. Bennett seemed to stalk the dusky chamber as MPs talked about such things as trade and protectionism.

The name of the late Conservative prime minister floated time and again into debate on a resolution calling for

Because It Is Right

THOUGH THE CANADIAN Government has found no solution for the problem of unemployment, it is planning to distribute surplus food to unemployed families, according to The Canadian Press. This plan would not strike at the root causes of poverty in the midst of plenty but it would be extremely valuable just the same.

No one knows how many workers are really unemployed in Canada. The official figure is something over half a million but a Senate committee is advised by experts that about a third of these people are in no desperate need of jobs, for one reason or another.

On the other hand, in calculating the full effect of unemployment it must be remembered that many idle workers have dependents who suffer from their idleness. At least a million Canadians, probably more, must be afflicted by this blight to greater or lesser degree.

It will take time to cure unemployment under the best of conditions. Even the business upturn generally expected before this year's end cannot put all our people to work. They are idle not through some temporary cause but because the national economy is distorted, mainly by excessive production costs.

If we cannot immediately solve this problem it is unthinkable that Canadians should be short of food in a country embarrassed by a huge surplus of many foodstuffs.

To distribute some of this surplus among those who need it may seem to be a simple matter but it is not. The state must pay for the food in the first place and then make sure that it goes where it actually is needed. There will always be chiselers to take advantage of the state's generosity.

But the welfare organizations throughout the country, public and private, know pretty accurately where the need exists and could manage the distribution of food with a minimum of wastage. The hard core of misery, where aid of this sort is required, cannot be very large in statistical terms, though it certainly is large in human terms. A reasonable scheme of food distribution is well within the Government's means.

In his inaugural address President Kennedy said that his people must help the under-developed nations not merely for strategic reasons but because this sort of assistance was morally "right." So it is. This moral dictum applies also to the internal affairs of a rich nation like Canada.

It is right that people who are in need, through no fault of their own but only through society's mistakes, should receive the necessities of life until the mistakes are corrected. It would be wrong, wicked and unthinkable to let any Canadian go hungry while we have more food than we know what to do with.

Even if he cannot solve the long-term unemployment problem, Mr. Diefenbaker, a compassionate man, should start his food distribution plan without delay.

New Approach to Narcotics

MR. DAVIE FULTON'S PROPOSALS for a new attack on the narcotic drugs problem make sense in several particulars. They will make even better sense if the current optimism over the possibilities of curing addicts is justified.

In its basic terms, the new plan calls for heavier penalties—up to life imprisonment—for traffickers, and the establishment of new institutions in which criminal addicts would be segregated and given the most up-to-date treatment.

Two weaknesses appear in the scheme. At present there seems to be no definite assurance that addicts can be cured except in unusual cases. Conceivably science and medicine in recent years have made progress to that end. If so, then the public should be further informed on this point.

The other weakness is a failure to remove from the illegal traffic in drugs the high profits which can be made by traffickers who risk the heavy penalties for illegal sale.

Life imprisonment, or a system which would release convicted traffickers back into society after their terms only on parole, placing them under permanent surveillance, may be a powerful deterrent to traffickers. But if there is still big money to be made in peddling drugs, there are some who will take the risks. Severity of penalty provides no guarantee that the crime will be eliminated, although under the new proposal a life sentence would remove from circulation traffickers who are caught.

Lagging Behind the March

A WRITER COMMENTED THE other day that dictator Salazar has kept Portugal in the eighteenth century. It is true that many parts of the world remain outside the benefits of the twentieth century, sometimes by restraint, sometimes by their own apparent wish.

There are scientific and medical advances which bring to those who accept them the advantages of our modern heritage of learning. But others may refuse to acknowledge them, and so continue in the environment of an earlier era.

Fluoridation is a case in point. Sudbury, Ontario, for instance, has fluoridated its water supply artificially for the past eight years. Dr. R. B. Sutherland of the Sudbury district health unit reports that there has been a marked decline in tooth decay. In some cases the reduction has been as much as 71 per cent, especially among children in the five to nine-year bracket.

Buttering No Parsnips

THE OTHER DAY, AT AN IMPORTANT convention in Vancouver, the president of the dairy industry suggested a federal government subsidy of 10 cents a pound on butter to lower the cost to the consumer.

At the same time, Mr. Alvin Hamilton, minister of agriculture, predicted vaguely that while there would be no reduction in payment to the farmer, the price of butter to the consumer would be lower.

What do both these proposals mean? If they mean anything at all, it is that butter would be marked down off the counter so that customers could buy it for less. But if the price to the producer is the question of treatment is of cardinal importance. A report released by the Carnegie Endowment last November says that "the treatment of drug addicts... is receiving increasing attention and... is approached with growing optimism regarding possibilities of success..." This is encouraging, but not final.

It is encouraging not only because it provides for the addict hope of overcoming his addiction. It also could deter potential traffickers, since every addict if he cannot acquire his supplies any other way, may be forced into the business of peddling.

Whatever the limitations of Mr. Fulton's proposals, they place Canada in the forefront of nations working co-operatively to control the use and distribution of narcotics. This country, a staunch supporter of international conventions to that end, apparently is prepared to act unilaterally on the question of compulsory treatment of drug addicts in closed institutions. Canada had objected to an international convention clause to that effect because, as Canadian spokesmen have pointed out, this would encroach on the national government's competence. The government, however, is apparently prepared to work toward the same objective without external pressure.

The Fulton plan, moreover, puts sharp teeth in the domestic law against traffickers—development sought by the international body working toward a simplified and co-ordinated attack on the evil.

This is an experience that has been duplicated in scores of other North American communities, including several in British Columbia. Where nature has been negligent in the fluoride content of the water supply, the missing ingredient has been added to a strength at which it can protect tooth enamel from decay. The results have been proved time and again by dental and medical authorities both private and public.

* But many other communities continue to use fluoride-deficient water, with the accompanying disadvantages of increased tooth decay among young and old, and higher annual dental costs.

Victoria is one of these latter, up to date in many respects but still toiling along a couple of generations behind those communities which have acted on the proven advice of their medical and dental experts and fluoridated their water. Why do we lag?

left unchanged, somebody will have to pay the difference between the present price and the reduced figure. Who will pay it? The consumers of Canada, of course, in taxes to the government which provides the subsidy.

There would be a redistribution of costs. The family which buys margarine either by preference or because it costs less than butter, could contribute in taxes to the government to provide the butter subsidy. Then those who buy the more expensive spread could get it at a lower price—and the margarine users could keep on using margarine. But both would pay the subsidy.

"No, silly... they wouldn't REALLY put the Members in jail... but they have to keep the equipment and procedures ready just in case...! Exciting, isn't it...?"

CLOTHES: CAUSE OR EFFECT?

By B. A. TOBIN

Consider the Lilies of the Campus

A NEW YORK writer is worried about the college youth of today. That doesn't set him in a class of his own, by any means. But the cause of his concern is a little unusual. He says he's worried because male college students just now are too quiet both in their dress and their deportment. It bothers him, because he can't believe that it will continue, and he fears what may be building up. He ties in clothes with conduct, too, feeling that one is an accompaniment of the other. And he's watching the fashions trend on the campus to try and get a little forewarning of what may be ahead.

Calm Period

At the moment everything is calm.

North American students are reported to be paying a little more attention to their clothes. Even in the high school grades they are giving a little more attention to grooming and neatness.

Slacks, sweaters and sports jackets are becoming "the thing" where once unbuttoned flannel shirts, jeans and other uninformal types of attire were demanded. And their lives are quieter

too.

There does seem to be a tie-in between dress and conduct. The fad of cramming students into telephone booths that raged a while ago, for instance. That wasn't the bright idea of youths who wear sports jackets and have a thought to the crease of their trousers. It could only be dreamed up, and indulged in, by folk whose clothes

could stand the strain—whose clothes,

indeed, looked as though the wearers

had been stuffed into telephone booths,

whether or not they had.

Matching Accessories

There is much to be said for the theory. Back around the turn of the century, for instance, when bicycling was the rage with young men, what style could have suited this pastime better than the peg-top trousers that were so popular. No need for bicycle clips, then.

Or later, in the twenties, when the

Charleston was in flower, what went better with the kick-step than the bell-bottom trousers that no young fellow wanted to appear without?

Did the clothes encourage the pastimes, or vice-versa?

The cult of the black leather jackets,

black trousers and jack boots—did young toughs wear these clothes because they went with current behaviour, or did they act the way they did because they had to live up to their "tough" clothes?

We've all read or heard of the squads of leather-jackets on their motorcycles

who staged riots in many a United States town. Could you imagine these youths acting the same way if they'd been dressed neatly in sports jackets and grey flannels, or Ivy League suits?

Of course it will be argued that such youths would never buy such clothes. But it's interesting to speculate on how they would act if they did wear them.

The same applies to Britain's Teddy boys. The uniform, once acquired, must have spurred many a young fellow to try to live up to it, just as many a boy,

in a much better cause, has excelled in trying to live up to the demands of his regimental attire.

Clothes may not make the man, but they must certainly influence him. Do you think more sharply in a business suit than in slippers and bathrobe? Do you unconsciously take on physical strength and outdoor vigor in a rough macinaw that you don't feel in, say, a near raincoat? Are you more polite

in a tuxedo than in dungarees?

Every team has its ups and downs.

When the players see their own people turn against them they are not going to quit playing, but they need your material support. So please don't let your own boys down.

With the bullies that came over here from Spokane with a chip on their shoulder not so long ago, did you expect

our boys to turn and run?

So come and support your home team and keep Victoria known for the best sportsmanship in Canada.

These boys are worth your support and are desperately trying to please you.

As Our Readers See It

What Conscience?

So the Times has found a justification for hydrogen weapons, that is that, "their existence is so threatening that no nation with a conscience could use them or invite them" (Jan. 19). Back to conventional weapons. Maybe that way we can't kill so fast?

But since when have nations had a conscience? Did any of the belligerents of World War II have a conscience? Did Canada with her thousands of casualties? If the droppers of the A bomb at Hiroshima were concerned about the "further" loss of life, what prevented them from being concerned about the loss of life in the war up to that time?

If freedom versus tyranny was the cause of the war, how come that there are over twice as many people in concentration camps now in the world than there were before the war? (Prof. Charles Richet, medical expert at the 1960 Oslo conference of the World Veterans Association.)

The prime reason for the existence of war in modern society is the production of wealth for sale for the profits of the

Who's for Blackjack?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The American Mathematical Society was meeting here last week to hash over such matters as the "lattice isomorphisms of finite non-abelian groups of dimension P."

"This sounded like fun, so I beat it over to the society's headquarters to see if I could horn in on the festivities."

I have a keen interest in mathematics because I use it a lot in making out expense accounts. People who make out an expense account automatically qualify as theoretical mathematicians.

At times, their mathematics may even become hypothetical.

It wasn't, however, my professional interest that attracted me to the society's meeting. What drew me into this circle of heavy thinkers was my deep-seated fascination with doubletalk.

Having spent a number of years here in the centre of bureaucracy, I thought I had seen some real experts in the field of linguistic density, which the layman knows as "gobbledygook."

But let me tell you that our government officials are raw amateurs compared to those mathematicians when it comes to making themselves incomprehensible.

Consider, if you please, some of the specimens I collected while browsing through the society's program:

Other Nation Crimes Charged to Eichmann

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Charges levied against Adolf Eichmann indicate that Israel apparently is assuming the right to try the accused Nazi mass murderer on behalf of the world community for his alleged crimes against non-Jews as well as Jews.

The Israeli government's announcement of the formal charges Wednesday night surprised many observers in that it revealed a widening of the scope of Eichmann's coming trial beyond crimes against the Jewish people.

Included in the 15 counts against the jailed former SS colonel were charges of alleged crimes against gypsies and on behalf of Poles, Yugoslavs and Czechs.

One of the counts charged Eichmann with participation in the wiping out of the Czech village of Lidice in the Second World War.

The 54-year-old former Nazi official, who has been accused of responsibility for the wartime deaths of 6,000,000 Jews in Germany and Nazi-occupied countries, was formally charged with war crimes and membership in Nazi organizations as well as crimes against Jewish people and humanity.

Bralorne Vein Promising

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Bralorne Pioneer Mine's ore development on the 38th level has met with initial success, according to President Franc R. Joubin. The 38th level crosscut has just reached its main objective, the No. 77 vein, about 300 feet from the Queen shaft.

According to Bell, it is 10 feet wide where it is cut and of ore grade. Mr. Joubin says drifting will be started as soon as possible.

This is the second important structure intersected in the 38th level crosscut. No. 79 vein was intersected about 300 feet from the shaft and also looks promising.

To date, says Mr. Joubin, deepest intensive ore development has been on No. 35 level 450 feet above where the No. 77 ore body is 1,060 feet long and 7.2 feet wide and grading .79 ounces of gold per ton.

More mysterious goings-on with stock of Beatty Bros., one of the more peripatetic stocks on the Toronto board in the last couple of years as one take-over rumor follows another.

Shares of Beatty, Fergus, Ont., appliance and farm equipment manufacturers, ranged from $6 to $13 in 1959 and from $4.75 to $8 in 1960.

Despite an annual report showing heavy loss last year and little prospect of a better year in 1961, Beatty Bros. shares have been kicking up around the $6.50-$7 mark for some weeks and now an offer has been made to buy 80,000 shares at $8.

The offer was mailed to shareholders Thursday by Canada Trust on behalf of "unidentified Canadian interests." The offer closes Feb. 28 and is conditional on 80,000 of the 417,000 shares outstanding being tendered.

Home Oil president R. A. Brown, Jr., was in the spectators' gallery of the Commons when Trade Minister Hees announced the "national oil policy" and, according to reports, was a very disgruntled man.

The Hees announcement completely killed Mr. Brown's dream of securing the Montreal market for Canadian oil, a dream to which he devoted a vast amount of time, energy and money.

Since the new policy foretells only a relatively modest increase in production of western crude, it probably seals the deal whereby Home will sell its Redwater reserves to Triad for a reported $7,000,000 to $7,500,000 — although they may be worth as much as $12,000,000. Triad, controlled by British Petroleum, can afford to sit on the oil; Home, with its heavy indebtedness, cannot.

Total dollar volume in retail appliance sales for the lower Island area declined by about 16.2 per cent in 1960, according to a statistical study issued by the B.C. Electric.

Electric appliance sales were down 16 per cent; gas appliances off by about 24.9 per cent.

U.S. Stand Cools
U.K. Gold Market

LONDON (AP) — Gold prices fell in the London free market today to the lowest point since last October. Dealers said the winter gold rush sparked by concern over U.S. reserves is definitely over.

The price was fixed this morning at $35.28 an ounce.

The official U.S.-pegged price is $35 an ounce.

During the winter speculation, the London price rose as high as $40.

Dealers said today President Kennedy's stand against dol-

similar public statements

from New York stock ex-

cooled the market.

JOINT TOURIST PUSH
BY B.C., CALIFORNIA?

Trade Minister Robert Bonner said Thursday B.C. and California could go together on tourist promotion.

He called B.C. "the bridge" between California and Alaska in outlining reasons for the provincial government planning a trade office in San Francisco.

It would mean a tremendous surge in markets for B.C. products, he said, from a population of only 4.7 million within 1,500 miles in Canada, to a U.S. population of 20.1 million within a similar radius southward. Personal income in the Canadian area is only $6.2 billion; it is $44.3 billion in the Pacific coast states.

SEATTLE ACE STARTING TO MOVE

Guyle Fielder? Oh, Yes, Now We Remember the Lad

Mons. Marcel Pelletier, the Victoria goaltender, professes no great love for Guyle Fielder. The other day, however, he couldn't help but notice that Fielder has been short-changed in the matter of publicity.

Marcel isn't worried about how much ink is devoted to Fielder, but the matter just popped up in the conversation.

"Guys like (Ed) Ehrenth and (Frank) Arnett seem to be getting a lot of play this year," ventured Pelletier, "but Fielder is still the best hockey player on that Seattle team."

Even a true oracle couldn't have said it any plainer. Fielder is starting to move and it could be the Totems smoothie is downright serious about winning the Western Hockey League scoring championship for a sixth straight season.

That Seattle team comes to town for a meeting with the Cougars tonight, and Fielder is steadily climbing towards his accustomed spot in the individual point chase.

His point position might explain the lack of ink. In past seasons, at this time, Fielder has been so far out in front of the pack that binoculars were required to pick him up.

This year Guyle hasn't been too far off the pace but the pace-setters have been his teammate, Rudy Filion, and Calgary's Lou Jagiowski and Ron Leopold. They have been drawing most of the raves.

Fielder last week boosted his point total to 61, including a league high of 45 assists, to move to within three points of Leopold.

Incidentally, when Montreal Canadiens' ambassador at large, Maurice "Rocket" Richard went to Seattle last weekend, he took a second look at the stick Fielder uses on the ice.

"Too short," said Rocket of the abbreviated hickory. "Every inch of the stick is valuable to a player. By cutting some of it off, you might be depriving from some of your game."

But, as the statistics show, Fielder isn't hampered.

ICE CHIPS: Tonight's game at Memorial Arena is Cougars' last home stand until they return from an eight-game road trip. The Cats may play without the services of defenceman Don McLeod, still bothered by a knee injury suffered in Tuesday's game against Winnipeg. Victoria rookie Bert Fizzell hopes to pep up his point production by improving his shooting. He's been working hard on getting his shots away faster.

Cougar coach George Agar is cautiously chortling over the deal that saw Victoria acquire the services of centre Barrie Ross while Winnipeg Warriors got football star Gerry James.

Agar was far from impressed with James but is high on Ross. "Fear of Cougars 11 remaining home games are against the fourth-place Totems. Leopold, playing only his third season in the WHL, needs two more goals to hit the 100-goal circle. . . . Portland centre Gord Haworth suffered a shoulder injury last week in Victoria but, fortunately for the Bucks, it isn't as bad as first feared. He may get back into action Sunday."

Big 'M' Scores No. 41

Frank Mahovlich started it and Johnny Bower finished it in great style Thursday night as Toronto Maple Leafs shut out Detroit Red Wings 5-0, but the Leafs couldn't vault over Montreal Canadiens into sole possession of first place in the National Hockey League.

Canadiens got two goals each from Bernie Geoffrion, Dickie Moore and Claude Provost as they free-wheeled to a 7-5 win over New York Rangers to stay in a first-place tie with the Leafs.

It marked the first appearance of Geoffrion, the league's leading point getter, since he was injured Jan. 14 and he proved convincingly that the lay-off hasn't affected his shooting eye.

In the other NHL action, Ron Murphy got both goals for Chicago as the Black Hawks battled Boston Bruins to a 2-2 tie.

BRILLIANT AND LUCKY

Bower was both brilliant—he stopped 35 shots, several at point-blank range—and lucky as he picked up his first shut-out of this season.

The Wings, who have managed only one win in their last 13 home games, bounced at least three shots off goal posts after catching Bower out of position.

Mahovlich opened the scoring before the game was five minutes old, getting his 41st goal of the season when he scooped up the puck from a lethargic Detroit defence and flipped a soft shot into the top of the net from 15 feet out.

Dick Duff, Dave Keon, Red Kelly and George Armstrong potted the other Leaf goals.

Canadiens packed all their scoring into the last half of the game, exploding for five goals in less than 10 minutes in the second period after Johnny Laval gave the Rangers a 1-0 lead in the first.

For the first time in several weeks, Canadiens were at full strength with defenceman Doug Harvey back in action.

Don Saved First Ace For the Proper Time

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—Al Mengert, usually a stay-at-home club pro, was the leader today going into the third round of the 90-hole $50,000 Palm Springs golf classic—but Don January was already the big money-winner with $50,000 hole-in-one.

Mengert, 31, who has club jobs at St. Louis, Mo., in the summer and at Phoenix, Ariz., in the winter, fired a second-round 65 Thursday which, with January, who had never before hit a hole-in-one in 24 36-hole total of 138, January, years of golfing, used an also 31, who is a regular on the eight-iron to dunk his tee shot pro tour, also had a second-right-into the hole on the fly.

In the other NHL action, Ron Murphy got both goals for Chicago as the Black Hawks battled Boston Bruins to a 2-2 tie.

EXPENSIVE CART. Tobias won a golf cart valued at $1,000 for his ace. Another highlight of the second round was a sizzling eight-under par 63 at the Thunderbird course by giant George Bayer—the best round of the day. Bayer had a two-round total of 135 and was in a four-way tie for fourth place with Jay Hebert, 66-69, Fred Hawkins, 67-68, and Dave Marr, 70-70.

At that, his was not the only ace of the day. Amateur Sam Tobias of Bakersfield, Calif., holed out his tee shot on the 217-yard 12th hole at the Eldorado course. Tobias, a 17-handicapper, is the momentary hero of duffers all over the world, wasn't even trying—he used driver on the hole.

Civic Centre Land Sought by Saanich

Saanich council Wednesday moved a step nearer to developing a civic-municipal centre at Swan Lake by ordering expropriation proceedings to acquire 41 acres of property on Haynes Road near Douglas.

The property in the over-all plan for a civic centre has been designated as the site for the new joint fire-police hall scheduled for construction this spring.

But in approving expropriation proceedings, councillors reserved the right to refuse to buy the property if the price fixed by the arbitration court is too high.

KEY TO CENTRE

Under provincial statutes, a municipality is not bound by an expropriation award.

Voting against acquiring the land were Couns. Leslie Bassmore and Joseph Casey who are opposed to the proposed civic centre.

The site Saanich seeks is the key to some 12 additional acres essential for future development of the civic centre.

The over-all 23 acres eventually would contain municipal hall, health centre and other civic buildings which might be required over a period of 25 years.

The plan also includes adequate future parking facilities

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by girls readers and those who submit the questions he receives will receive worthwhile prizes.

The young person who first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Anthony Trapane, aged 12, of Gary, Ind., for his question:

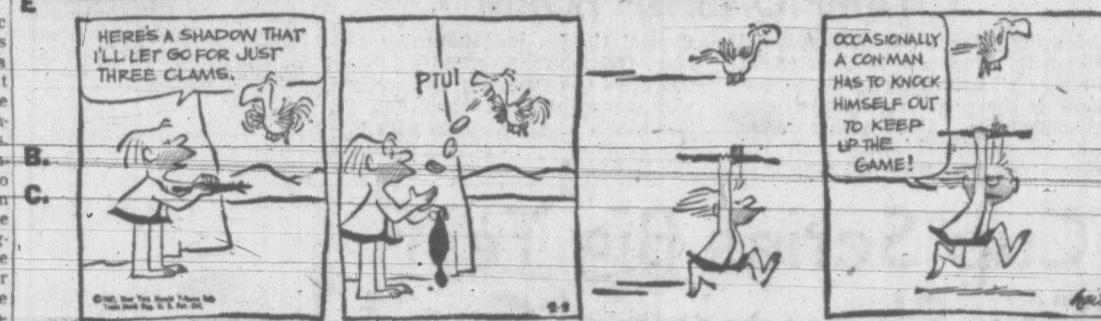

What Are the Atomic Numbers?

Everything in the world is made from tiny atoms. So also are our sister planets, the sun, the moon and all the stars. The number of atoms is beyond imagination. But the number of different atoms is quite small. In our world of nature, there are only 92 different atoms. A few more have been found by the scientists and maybe others exist in the seething stars. In quantity, atoms of one kind form an element. The element gold is made only from atoms of gold. Oxygen is an element and carbon is an element—and every element is labeled with its own atomic number.

The atomic number of, say, the element gold is built right into every atom of gold. Every atom is made from still smaller atomic particles. Every atom contains one or more proton particles. Every atom of gold contains 79 protons, every atom of oxygen contains eight protons. This is the atomic numbers so far discovered run in a neat row all the way from one to 102. If you give an atomic number to a scientist, he can tell you a great deal about the element and its atoms. Light elements with small atoms have the low atomic numbers. Heavy elements with large atoms have the large atomic numbers. The atomic number also can tell the expert how the element behaves with other elements. He can tell all this and maybe more, because the number of protons is just about the most valuable piece of information you can have about any atom.

Electrons Ring Nucleus

The basic structure of any atom is a central nucleus surrounded by orbiting electrons. The electrons are particles charged with negative electricity. The protons, charged with positive electricity, are locked with the nucleus of the atom. The total atom is electrically neutral, for the positive and negative charges are evenly balanced. In other words, the number of protons equals the number of electrons and the atomic number tells us both. The smallest atom is hydrogen, atomic number one. One electron orbits the one proton's nucleus.

By FRANK RUTTER
Premier W. A. C. Bennett Thursday night said B.C. is against export of power on a permanent basis.

He was answering charges
by Randolph Harding (CCF-Kaslo-Slocan) that the government has changed its mind, since deals of the last five years for developing the Columbia River for private U.S. interests fell through.

Now that a treaty has been signed between Canadian and U.S. governments, Mr. Harding said, B.C. has made "a very, very serious blunder."

He said 40,000 acres of arable land will be flooded along the Columbia if a High Arrow dam is built as planned in the treaty. He said B.C. went on record in 1955 in a brief to the federal government that it was against such flooding and against export of power except on a temporary basis.

"Do I understand you are now against export?" asked Mr. Harding.

"On a permanent basis,"
he said. "The premier said that it was against such flooding and against export of
power except on a temporary basis.

DEALS DEFENDED

Mr. Bennett defended deals planned with Puget Sound
Utilities to build a dam at Mica
Creek and Kaiser Aluminum
Co. to build a Low Arrow dam.
He said they were better deals than the one now almost concluded on the Columbia, to cost some $458,000,000.

What drew him out were quotes read out by Mr. Harding from statements made by Attorney-General Robert Bonner to federal authorities in 1955 concerning plans for the "Kaiser dam wouldn't flood out 40,000 acres of land and the High Arrow is going to do just that," said Mr. Harding. "Muskrat patches" called out a government member.

"I'm surprised to see the treaty drawn up as it is. I don't think it is a good one."

FLIPPED OVER

"You have flipped right over on your back," said the CCFer.
Mr. Harding said he wondered what B.C.'s real thinking is on the Columbia.

"Are you still fishing about for these people; have you got the bait out?" he asked, referring to the U.S. interests.

"No bait," retorted the premier.

"I think you should take us into your confidence," Mr. Harding said.

"We're just a little bit worried."

"The Kaiser dam is a better deal than this one," said Mr.
Bennett.

LOOK TO FUTURE
"The godalmighty dollar
isn't everything," said Mr.
Harding. "We have the future of this province to look after,
too."

"The most beautiful valley in B.C. will be destroyed," he said.

The Arrow dam would also ruin a great potential tourist business, he said.

"We could have had the same benefits by building storage at Mica — not quite as soon, but we would have got it.

"Why couldn't we keep our valley and have storage, too?"

At this point the premier and Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston both slipped out.

Earlier Mr. Harding had called for public ownership of all hydro power.

A-G DEFENDS ARROW PLANS

Attorney General Robert Bonner Thursday sprang to the defense of the Arrow Lakes dam proposed on the Columbia River.

An alternative plan to build a diversion dam on the Kootenay River would have resulted in far more serious flooding, he told the Legislature.

He said the opposition is making "unqualified statements" about Arrow flooding.

The international treaty for Columbia power development includes Arrow. Opposition Leader Robert Strachan Monday accused the B.C. government of wrecking an agreement for a Kootenay diversion dam, known as the Dorr plan.

Indians Treated As 'Foreigners'

Clam digging and fishing in Saanich Inlet is forbidden because it is set aside as a "sportsmen's paradise." John Tisdale (SC-Saanich) told the Legislature Thursday night.

"We tell the Indians they must go out 50 miles to fish because this is a sportsmen's paradise."

"We might as well tell the Saanich farmers to grow their potatoes 50 miles up-island."

"FOREIGNERS"

Mr. Tisdale claimed that British Columbia has "ignored" the problems of the Indians.

"We treat them as foreigners, yet they were here before us and are more entitled to call themselves Canadians than we are."

He said the Indians should be granted a year-round system of clam digging that would help them to overcome their poverty. If necessary, they could alternate the clam varieties to be dug.

Mr. Tisdale called for early research into the "red tide" conditions which menace clam digging. He said this contamination of the waters was caused by new industries.

He urged more highway development on the west side of the Saanich Peninsula and called for completion of the McTavish Road behind Patricia Bay Airport from the East Road to the West Saanich Road.

Senate May Rule on All Divorces

OTTAWA (CP) A plan is afoot to give the Senate sole and permanent parliamentary authority to grant divorces.

The idea, developed among senators and reported to be gaining support among MPs, is that the Senate be given power to dissolve marriages by resolution or decree. It would replace the present system under which each divorce requires an individual act of Parliament which must pass both Houses and receive royal assent.

Applications for parliamentary divorces come from Quebec and Newfoundland, the two provinces without divorce courts. That would also be the pattern under the new proposal.

The plan is being hatched among senators who have strong objections chiefly on constitutional grounds — to a Dec. 16 Commons bill that would waive on an annual basis the Commons' task of enacting each divorce bill originating in the upper house.

The Commons' measure is a private member's bill which M. Douglas Morton (PC-Toronto-Davenport) piloted to a rapid and surprising passage, needs approval by the Senate where debate on it is expected next week.

There will be matinees and evening showings, and headlining a program of entertainment will be poetry readings by Prof. Tony Emery against a background of jazz.

WHEAT FOR CHINA TO PASS THROUGH VICTORIA

Increased activity for Ogden Point grain elevator is forecast due to Canada's $60,000,000 sale of 40,000,000 bushels of wheat to Communist China, as ships will load here as well as at Vancouver. Operated by Victoria Grain Elevators Ltd., the elevator has been doing a brisk business in rapeseed in the past few months, today began loading 450,000 bushels of wheat into the Greek-owned bulk carrier World Felicia. This shipment is headed for Japan. (Times Photo by Halkett.)

'Turn the Fizzling to Sizzling' For Sixties Says Chamber Head

An all-out effort to "turn the fizzling sixties into the sizzling sixties" was called for today by the president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in an address to a Victoria Chamber of Commerce luncheon at the Empress Hotel.

MONTE ROBERTS

It must be five or six years ago that this column sent up a keening lament for the decline and fall of the banjo.

Whatever has become of the banjo? this column asked plaintively. Whatever has become of the wanging-banging, humming-strumming banjo I used to hear when my years were tender and my ears were alert?

At the time, the banjo appeared to be as extinct as men who get up and offer their bus seats to ladies.

But this week I have heard wonderful news.

The banjo is coming back, just as if it had never been away!

In Winnipeg, for instance (I've always said Winnipeg people are wise about everything but weather), in Winnipeg banjo sales are up 50 per cent.

Other progressive Canadian cities are following Winnipeg's example, and going back to the banjo.

And right here in Victoria, I hear a rumor that Eddy Peabody is coming to town.

I do not believe this rumor.

The last time I saw and heard Eddy Peabody was in the prehistoric era of the Fanchon and Marco shows at the Strand in Vancouver, with Jackie Souders' orchestra.

So it cannot be true that Eddy Peabody who plays the banjo is coming, and I for one shall rush down to hear whoever it is.

Because I love the banjo, and I am so happy my lament of five or six years ago turned out to be unnecessary.

Do you think I might have the same luck with a lament for the decline and fall of the 5-cent glass of beer and the free lunch?

Beginning Sunday, Feb. 12, visitors will be allowed in the general wards at any time between 3 and 8 p.m. Present hours are 2 to 3 p.m. and 7 to 8 p.m.

The new system, called "open visiting" has been adopted in 12 of the province's hospitals in past years, including Royal Jubilee Hospital here.

It is primarily designed to give patients, rather than visitors, a break.

By stretching out the time allotted to visiting, the hospital hopes to eliminate the concentrated "bunching" of visitors which could overwhelm a patient.

"Frequent and short (10 to 15 minutes) visits over the length of the patient's stay in hospital are beneficial," the hospital bulletin announcing the change said. "Long visits are tiring and could be harmful to the patient."

Is It Elaborate Gag Or 'Honest' Theft?

$900 Silver Ingot

Lifted at Buildings

City detectives are today carrying out an intensive investigation into the disappearance of a 70-pound silver ingot from a Department of Mines display in the rotunda of the Legislative Buildings.

The silver was taken—either as a prank or an "honest" theft—shortly after 11 a.m. Thursday.

Belief that the theft might be a prank, brought on by a dare or a bet, is strengthened because of the difficulty of cashing in on the $900 value of the ingot.

As one detective put it: "It's not the kind of merchandise which can be disposed of through the usual channels."

The bar was displayed on a table just to the right of the inquiry office, where security officer Jack Stearn was on duty.

The ingot measures 12 inches by six inches by five inches.

A man with a "beatnik" type beard is prime suspect in the disappearance.

About 11:15 a.m., two men in their early twenties, wearing blue overcoats, walked into the rotunda.

A third man, the "beatnik" bearded, followed, and engaged Mr. Stearn in conversation. He asked where he could find the new Social Credit MLA for Skeena, Dudley Little.

Mr. Stearn told him Mr. Little was staying at the Embassy Motel, and the bearded man left.

He said although his house had an excellent sea view, it was less desirable property because "the water goes right over the house during a storm" when waves hit the sea wall east of Clover Point.

City assessor Alfred Joyce pointed out he lived 300 feet from the water himself and frequently had to hose salt spray off his windows.

"But we wouldn't give the house up because we get a sea view," he said.

A majority decision of the court supported the assessment increase.

EX-ASSESSOR

Also fighting an assessment valuation was G. S. Stocker who said he was a retired assessor from Ontario.

"I figure there is something radically wrong with the assessment in and around Victoria," he said.

He complained that the assessment on a duplex at 1512 Fell was actually higher than the $5,200 he paid for it.

Mr. Joyce pointed out three comparable properties, cited by Mr. Stocker, had all recently sold for more than double the price he paid.

"It looks like you got yourself a bargain," said court chairman J. G. McIntosh as the panel turned down the appeal.

"If I could get the assessment price I'd sell the place for it," retorted Mr. Stocker.

BE CAREFUL

"Better be careful," said court member Coun. Joseph Casey. "I once said the same thing and I was taken up on it."

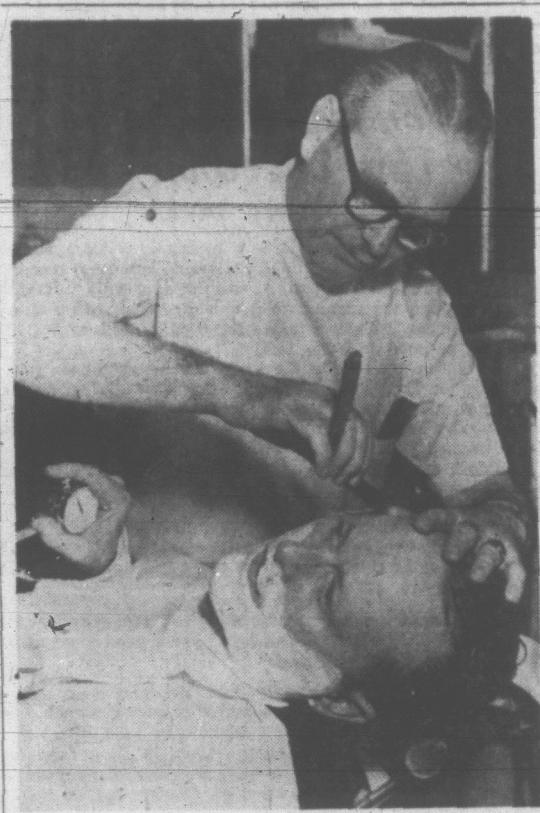

An appeal by Imperial Oil Ltd. against a boost from $16,590 to $34,720 in land assessment on a service station at Douglas and Broughton was launched before the noon adjournment.

On Thursday, the court began assessments on the 900 block Johnson from $120 per front foot to $100 after McCall Brothers funeral parlour and other businesses claimed the assessor had overvalued its commercial desirability.

Normal two-day session of the court was expected to extend into Monday. Some 39 appeals, most from downtown businesses where major assessment increases were made this year, were filed for hearings.

"There were implications in some stories that were not true," he said. "We are not concerned with the conduct of the great majority of our students."

Briefly, the new rules announced this week, prohibit

THE RAZOR'S EDGE has opened a new chapter in barber's books across Canada in record claimed for speedy shave. Barber Les Stewart has the stop watch held on him by reporter Tony Dickason. (Times Photo) razor strokes against my grey.

Had he been less a craftsman—and merely gouged a head—more time could easily have been shorn along with the whiskers.

There was only one slight touch of the old nick during the job—a tiny red blob oozed under the chinbone.

The shave was clocked with a stop-watch.

Generally complete shaves, with all the salid oil trimmings and fevered towels, take about 20 minutes. Actual razor application time is about half this.

NOT MANY SHAVES

Barbers these days don't get the same chances to shave customers as in the old days. Electric razors and the cost of a shave, $1.50 in Victoria, has trimmed this.

Mr. Stewart says he has given only two shaves this year and all told last year not over a dozen.

He comes from a barbering family. His father, Harry, operated a shop near the old Times building, starting in 1911. An uncle ran an emporium in Esquimalt near the Halfway House for many years.

50 AN HOUR

Mr. Stewart recalls that his uncle, John, who had been a barber in Glasgow, said that a barber couldn't be employed in a shop there unless he could shave 50 persons an hour; but someone else did the lathering.

When Mr. Stewart himself started barbering in 1927, shaves were two-bits.

During the shave Mr. Stewart hummed along with the shop radio.

The tune: "Give me five minutes more."

Old English Recipe Used For This Delectable Bacon

By PENNY SAVER

Women who would tempt their husbands' jaded appetites with a tantalizing dish of breakfast bacon, cured old country style, should visit the meat store I was in this morning. Having heard "through the grape vine" about quality of bacon cured by this butcher, I decided to see for myself. Believe me, it's every bit as good as I was told!

Present owner, who took over the business some six years ago, uses old English recipe handed down by original owner. What makes the difference in taste? Says this butcher: "We use dry heat in our smokehouse instead of steam. Bacon is all smoked by hardwood fires."

Before smoking period, bacon is prepared in tubs. For two weeks fresh pork is placed between alternate layers of salt and sugar.

Sliced cured bacon is selling at 79 cents a pound or 40 cents a half pound. One customer I met in the store tells me that she's been buying this bacon for 20 years and wouldn't dream of using any other!

Ready-to-eat hams, similarly prepared, are priced at 63 cents a pound, while tenderized hams are a good "buy" at 57 cents a pound.

Enterprising butcher also produces delicious meat loaves ready to pop into the oven. Two-pound loaves are 85 per cent beef and 15 per cent pork with addition of mild spices and onions. They're priced at 95 cents. Baked in a low oven for an hour and a half, they're a busy woman's standby on a crowded weekend! Butcher suggests pouring half a tin of tomato soup over loaf before placing in oven.

Other "specials" you should check on this weekend are bananas that sell at two pounds for 39 cents, and fresh local Grade A large eggs, a "give-away" at 85 cents for two dozen.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Give 'Em an Inch . . .

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is 15 and her boy friend is 16. They are "going steady."

I don't object to his making himself at home here, but I think he is overdoing it. He takes off his shoes, and even his shirt, in my living room. He goes to the refrigerator and helps himself whenever he feels like it.

I don't want to be an old stick-in-the-mud, but is this the way all teen-agers act? If so, I'll keep quiet. If not, I would like to call it to a halt. Please advise me.

TEEN-AGER'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: No well-bred teen-ager (or adult, for that matter) goes to the refrigerator and helps himself. Most teen-agers DO take off their shoes, but I would certainly tell the young man to keep his shirt on.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I took a trip two years ago. While travelling we met a very nice Australian couple. We exchanged Christmas cards and that was the extent of our friendship.

We just received a letter from them telling us they are naming us "godparents" for their new-born son. I thought godparents had to be present at the christening. Does this mean we have to send a gift now and one every year on his birthday? It takes forever to get parcels from here to Australia unless they go air-mail, which would cost more than the gift.

Is it possible to refuse to be godparents? Has anyone ever done it before? Should we decline?

Doesn't Understand How Alcohol Makes You Gain

Q. "I do not understand how alcohol can make one gain weight since I have read that energy would have been used for the weight if not for the alcohol supplied. See?"

A. These calories from alcohol are not stored as fat and are burned up rapidly, BUT they supply energy which otherwise would have come from food and therefore food is stored as fat which would have been used for the weight since I have read that energy the alcohol supplied. See?"

Q. "Will you please repeat your exercises for reducing the abdomen? I want to give them a try and misplaced the newspaper which had them in it. Will these flatten the abdomen and firm the muscles? Housework won't do it, I have found out."

A. It is true that special exercises use the muscles in a way housework doesn't. I will be glad to send my tested abdomen slimming exercises to you more difficult ones.

Q. "I have a baby seven months old and I am still not down to my normal weight. I'm 12 pounds overweight. My waist is three inches too large. Please give me an exercise for this and for my abdomen, which is two inches too big."

A. You will have to count calories, too, since you are overweight, but exercise will help to lose the extra weight in the spots you wish to reduce. Start with the abdominal exercise I already have given today. The following is a good one for the waist. Stand tall with your feet comfortably separated. Raise your arms sideward, shoulder height. Bend to the left, trying to touch the fingers of your right hand to your left toe. Raise trunk to erect position. This time bend to the right, trying to touch the fingers of your left hand to your right toe. Raise trunk. Continue, alternating right and left. This is an easy beginning exercise. The leaflet will give you more difficult ones.

Spring Hats Make Talking Point At Bridge-Tea in Colwood Club

All three lounges at Royal Colwood Golf Club were crowded Thursday afternoon with members of the ladies division, intent on enjoying their annual bridge and tea.

Arrangements of spring flowers added to the gaiety of the occasion. New spring hats worn by nearly every woman in the clubhouse created a colorful picture and gave a talking point to the afternoon.

Mrs. A. B. Hall, who came from Nanaimo for the party, had chosen a deep cloche of rough black straw trimmed with a huge white rose and dotted veil; Mrs. R. Rickenson's head-hugging cap was of turquoise flowers and green leaves.

On Mrs. Jack Gilbert's head was a cluster of huge magnolias and green leaves; Mrs. Frank Skillings softly draped turban was of rich plum velvet.

Mrs. Frank Rowbotham wore a high-rising cloche of black tulip encircled with delicate feather trim.

The ladies' captain, Mrs. Raymond Foster, who acted as hostess for the afternoon, had chosen a conical shape of flat pink roses interlaced with pale velvet leaves; Mrs. Ralph McCall wore a spray of pink lilies.

There were 47 tables in play.

Conveners were Mrs. M. L. Grant and Mrs. H. Matthew.

Draw for door prizes resulted in Mrs. H. H. Baker, Mrs. A. Playfair, Mrs. I. H. Solly, Mrs. G. L. Hay, Mrs. Gordon S. Stanscombe, Mrs. R. McCall and Mrs. I. M. Major being lucky winners.

Road Access Solution In the Cards

A top U.S. lumber official Thursday discussed public access to logging roads with provincial government officials in Victoria, and went away "interested."

T. R. Sheldon, manager of timberlands for Scott Paper Co., was here to discuss problems on the road owned by Elk River Timber Co. which goes to Gold River and Muchalat Arm on Vancouver Island.

"He was most co-operative," said Forests Minister Ray Williston.

Recreation Minister Earle Westwood said Mr. Sheldon was worried about fire protection, but said 80 per cent of logging roads in Washington State are open to the public during hunting seasons.

SOLUTION SOON

Mr. Sheldon said he would return to discuss the matter with officials of Scott, which controls Elk River Timber Co.

He said he hoped for a satisfactory solution soon, but would not be rushed into committing himself.

Mr. Sheldon also met with Comox MLA Dan Campbell, who has been the champion of the public's right to travel on the road.

Assessments Up

NANAIMO (CP)—Gross taxable assessments in Nanaimo have increased $1,271,900 in the last year, city assessor Ed Anderson reported.

Gross assessment of all property, whether taxable or not, now stands at $26,998,967. Gross taxable figures are $31,640,847.

KOKSILAH RIVER DROPS

Flood Fears Ease at Cowichan

(From Duncan Bureau) Fears of further flooding in the Cowichan district, twice hit by flash floods last month, ended this morning as rain held off during the night.

The fast-rising Koksilah River, which spilled over its banks Thursday to flood Cowichan Bay Road in several places, dropped several inches overnight but is still high, fast and dirty.

The bigger but slower-rising Cowichan River is still within its banks but is near the top in some spots below the Silver Bridge near Duncan.

Three days of heavy rain caused a slide Thursday on Cowichan Bay Road when part of a clay bank on Indian Reserve land above the highway gave way and blocked the road for 50 feet.

Department of highways works crews worked all day to clear the slide and the road was open to traffic again this morning.

"It will be a costly job to repair and reopen the road, and I don't know what the department intends to do," he said.

The road is used mainly by fishermen, although there are a few homes in the area.

A huge slide has blocked Riverbottom Road, about five miles northwest of Duncan. The Cowichan River is also threatening to undercut the road, which parallels the river, in two places. Department of highways foreman Ted Marsh said today the road will be closed for some time.

"It will be a costly job to repair and reopen the road, and I don't know what the department intends to do," he said.

The road is used mainly by fishermen, although there are a few homes in the area.

EXCLUSIVE: Victoria Man's Diary of Santa Maria Terror

'I SAW A MACHINE GUN AIMED AT ME'

What happened that night in the Caribbean when the liner Santa Maria was seized by Portuguese rebels? Here is the story as told by the ship's captain to Morris W. Rosenberg of The Associated Press.

By CAPT. MARIO SIMOES MAIA

RECIFE (AP)—At approximately 1.30 a.m. on Jan. 22, a frightened sailor of my ship came running to my cabin to report that some passengers were taking hostile action on the bridge. He said they had apparently seriously wounded the third officer, who was the pilot on the bridge at the time, and an apprentice officer with him.

I went up toward the bridge. When my eyes reached the level of the bridge floor I saw a man standing in the door across the bridge aiming a machine gun at me.

I quickly dropped down the steps and ran into my cabin. Locking the door and cutting off the lights, I called the engine room to halt the engines.

I started to leave by a side door of my cabin when I saw through the glass door an officer lying on the deck covered with blood. I thought he was dead until I noticed a leg moving.

When I started out the door to try to pull him into the cabin, I saw a man aiming a rifle at me. I locked myself in the cabin and in the dark, by counting the holes of my telephone, tried to telephone the crew to have them armed with bars or anything for weapons.

None answered in the crew rooms because at that time, they all were lying on the decks with guns pointed at their heads.

In another section, the officers' quarters, a man armed with a machine gun knocked on an officer's door. When the officer opened the door, the man fired a machine gun burst at him but by a miracle missed. The officer kicked the door shut. The man fired another burst through the door, again missing the officer, but the bullet marks are still there.

Castro Fires 120 Judges

HAVANA (AP) — In a sweep of Cuba's courts, Fidel Castro's government early today fired 120 judges throughout the island to assure a more "revolutionary" application of justice.

The jurists were charged with a counter-revolutionary, attitude and immoral conduct.

One of the Castro regime's chief complaints against the courts was that they repeatedly awarded owners of seized properties compensation which the government contended was too high.

One Supreme Court justice, the presidents of six provincial courts of appeal, 26 appeals magistrates and 87 other judges came under the axe, which fell for the second time in two months.

Tough Guys Spread Panic

(By Special Arrangement)

RECIFE, Brazil

Lawrence Williams, retired Dockyard mate from Esquimalt, B.C., kept a secret diary of his experiences aboard the pirated luxury liner Santa Maria.

He wrote it on the back of menus which he hid among guitar music sheets in his cabin.

His diary notes tell a graphic tale of the 12-day wandering cruise about the Atlantic.

Mr. Williams, a widower, is travelling abroad since his retirement.

He also has taken up painting and finished two paintings to wile away time during the cruise.

But his day-by-day diary gives the atmosphere of the uncertainty and terror among the passengers.

Here are his diary notes:

FIRST DAY

I was awakened just before 2 a.m. when the engines stopped ... strange noises up top. Ship started 40 minutes later. I thought everything was normal. Had no idea pirates had seized the ship.

That morning I went up on deck for exercise, as usual. A man stood there cradling a sub-machine gun.

"Get out of here," he shouted in Spanish. "Go back to your cabin."

I started back, then stopped, startled by the sight of fresh blood on the deck. It was soon horribly clear the pirates were in control.

We were told two of the officers had been shot. One was dead and the captain was in irons.

Panic spread. A gang of "tough guys" spread themselves around the ship, armed with shotguns, hand grenades and of all things dynamite.

Then Galvao gave us a pep talk.

"Keep your places and don't cause any trouble and you won't be harmed," he told us. He said the ship would sail for five or six days.

SECOND DAY

Our new friends patrolled all around the ship, carrying machine-guns and revolvers.

At 6 a.m. a large aircraft flew overhead and everyone rushed out thinking help had come.

It kept on going.

The pirates sent a message to Miami saying we had engine trouble and wouldn't arrive on time. They didn't say just how late we were going to be.

We passed one unidentified island then suddenly reversed course. We stopped about a mile offshore at another island. I guessed it was St. Lucia.

A boat was lowered and what appeared to be seven men were taken away. The wounded. Nobody knows what has happened to the body of the third mate.

The ship sped away at full speed on a northeast course.

THIRD DAY

We had time to study the pirates today. They are wearing green and red armbands.

These men are so well organized they even pay for their own drinks at the bar.

No signs of any planes or ships. Maybe nobody knows we're missing.

There was a rumor that we're going to rendezvous with another captured ship and sail to Africa, where the thugs will kill all the passengers. We half believed this.

FOURTH DAY

What a wonderful day.

A U.S. Navy plane circled overhead and we shouted and waved at it.

One American near me said: "I'll never complain about paying income tax again."

I agreed.

FIFTH DAY

The thugs opened the barriers to third-class passengers.

One of the pirates gave us a dramatic talk. After he finished, I almost asked him for an armband. "Boy, what a huckster."

The pirates are keeping the ship clean and orderly. Meals are skimpy, but we get by. For breakfast, bun and coffee. Codfish, potatoes and apple pie for lunch.

SIXTH DAY

The water supply is getting short. There's none in my cabin and most of us have only enough to wash twice a day.

Otherwise life goes on as usual—music, movies, swimming and shuffleboard.

The pirates say repeatedly they won't give up the ship.

SEVENTH DAY

U.S. planes are always with us now. It's a great sight, even for a Canadian.

The purser said today he had no money to cash travellers' cheques. Rumors the pirates will rob us to finance revolution.

Should Resign Strachan Avers

The Gaglardi case exploded into a name-calling cross-fire in the legislature today as Opposition Leader Strachan read a statement asking the Social Credit government to have the highways minister removed from the House.

He also called on the Social Credit government to make a full investigation of the Highway's minister's right to sit in the house.

Attorney-General Bonner accused Mr. Strachan of a "cheap, sly trick."

Premier Bennett said the CCF had made a complete "change of face."

Mr. Strachan rose at the opening of today's session and asked leave of the house to read a statement concerning the Gaglardi case.

He had raised it originally

Little Moral Right to Retain Seat

British parliamentary tradition unquestionably indicates, he said, that the minister has little moral right to retain his seat—but he added that he has not expressed and still did not express an opinion on Mr. Gaglardi's legal right to sit in the house.

Mr. Strachan said he had asked the Speaker to make a ruling on the matter but had been told that the Speaker was not competent to decide.

On later discussion with the Speaker, he said, he was referred to specific authorities, all of which indicated procedures requiring presentation of a motion to the legislature to bring action to have the member removed.

Then Mr. Bennett said, the opposition leader had forgotten what his fellow member said. "He's made a complete change of face."

Outside the House, Mr. Bonner told a reporter:

"The leader of the opposition has neither the guts nor the grounds to go after the minister of highways directly, but has to do it by abuse of the rules of this House."

Mr. Gaglardi has been subject of discussion on his right to sit here since he was fined $1,000 for disobeying a court order in paying department funds to union contractors for a highway job when the court had ordered that the money be paid in trust to satisfy a creditor.

CAPTAIN TELLS STORY

'I Saw a Gun Aimed at Me'

What happened that night in the Caribbean when the liner Santa Maria was seized by Portuguese rebels? Here is the story as told by the ship's captain to Morris W. Rosenbergs of The Associated Press.

By CAPT. MARIO SIMOES MAIA

RECIFE (AP)—At approximately 1:30 a.m. on Jan. 22, a frightened sailor of my ship came running to my cabin to report that some passengers were taking hostile action on the bridge.

He said they had apparently seriously wounded the third officer, who was the pilot on the bridge at the time, and an apprentice officer with him.

I went up toward the bridge. When my eyes reached the level of the bridge floor I saw a man standing in the door across the bridge aiming a machine-gun at me.

I quickly dropped down the steps and ran into my cabin. Locking the door and cutting off the lights, I called the engine room to halt the engines.

I started to leave by a side door of my cabin when I saw through the glass door an officer lying on the deck covered with blood. I thought he was dead until I noticed a leg moving.

When I started out the door to try to pull him into the cabin, I saw a man aiming a rifle at me. I locked myself in the cabin and in the dark, by counting the holes of my telephone, tried to telephone the crew to have them armed with bars or anything for weapons.

None answered in the crew rooms because at that time they all were lying on the decks with guns pointed at their heads.

In another section, the officers' quarters, a man armed with a machine-gun knocked on an officer's door. When the officer opened the door, the man fired a machine-gun burst at him but by a miracle missed. The officer kicked the door shut. The man fired another burst through the door, again missing the officer, but the bullet marks are still there.

In all, one officer was killed and three wounded—one with a shot in the back, two with shots in the lungs.

In my cabin at the time, after failing to get through a telephone call, I overheard on the communication system someone trying to call another point on the ship.

"Who is talking there?" I asked. A voice responded: "Who is calling?"

"This is the commander."

"Ah, senior commander, this is the doctor of the Portuguese immigration service speaking. I am badly wounded. Galvao (Portuguese exile Henrique Galvao) and his followers, have taken over the boat."

I tried again to telephone the bridge to see if anyone would answer. A strange voice, with an authoritative air, replied:

"This is Capt. Galvao, who in the name of Gen. Humberto Delgado has just taken your ship by assault. You must not try any kind of resistance because it will be violently repressed. Surrender will bring you benefits."

I replied I could surrender only after meeting with my officers and principal members of the crew. This was arranged. We came to the sad reality that there was nothing we could do.

* * *

We were cut off and, only because of the force of arms, we submitted to Galvao. I asked him to come to my cabin unarmed because he knew very well we didn't have any arms. In spite of his promise he came armed and accompanied by four armed men.

I told him we were surrendering because the crew was unarmed and vital points of the ship had been captured by him and we thought this was the best way to defend the lives of the passengers and the ship itself.

We declared we would continue to work only under the force of guns. That is the way we worked until yesterday. Any movement of ours was watched by armed men at all times. They did not have enough men to watch all crew members so they would keep watch in sections of the ship. When a crew member moved past the guard in one section the guard would inform the guard in the next about the man's task.

I went to the bridge a few times near the coast of Brazil. Each time I heard guns being cocked. We were under that kind of situation until the ship anchored in the harbor.

* * *

Once in here under the protection of Brazilian authorities I told Capt. Galvao that all officers and crew had reached a decision: Since the ship was now in a Brazilian port, we would all prefer to die together than sail out again with him and his men.

We had already had noisy demonstrations among the passengers near Recife protesting the situation. During one demonstration, one of the passengers was hit and thrown against a window, breaking the glass.

The decision of the ship's crew disoriented Galvao's force completely. Although they wanted to use force against the crew they did not because Brazilian authorities, including the captain of the port and Admiral Dias Fornelos himself, were aboard.

Galvao himself thought about disembarking all passengers and members of the crew who were not necessary to the operation of the ship, and leaving aboard the technicians necessary for moving the ship in hopes it could leave the harbor again.

But we maintained the firm decision that everybody aboard would disembark or die.

Thanks to the conversations of the two admirals (Brazilian and American) Galvao had to face the evidence of facts and permit total disembarkation.

I admire and am profoundly grateful to the passengers. They declared—the Americans in particular—that they would not disembark from the ship if the crew did not also disembark.

During the time of the ship's seizure we tried various ways to force them to dock in any port because of the poor control of the ship. We threw water into the sea and left the faucets on all night.

Any work we did was done under gunpoint. The radio messages Galvao sent to Russia, Bulgaria and all points of the world were transmitted under gunpoint, but even so the operators transmitted only one out of 10.

* * *

We could never count with certainty the number of Galvao's followers aboard. Galvao claimed about 100 but we could only count about 60, including five members of the crew—four men and a 15-year-old boy. The rest of the crew maintained a loyalty which I have rarely had the privilege of seeing.

There were 16 to 20 Portuguese among Galvao's men. The rest were Spaniards, Venezuelans and Cubans. Some had recently come from Russia, having been trained in Russian brigades. They had been in Cuba with Fidel Castro.

If all had been Portuguese this could vaguely be considered a political matter. But the majority were not Portuguese. This was an authentic case of piracy.

ARMS SNEAKED ABOARD LINER IN COFFIN

LISBON (Reuters)—Arms used by the band of Portuguese rebels to seize the liner Santa Maria were smuggled aboard in a coffin, the newspaper Diario de Noticias says today.

The newspaper reports from Recife, Brazil, that weeping women of Spanish nationality accompanied the coffin to the ship when the Santa Maria stopped at Laguaira, Venezuela. They said it contained a body being sent back to Europe for burial.

B.C. READY 'ANY TIME' ON COLUMBIA—BENNETT

B.C. will welcome discussions with Finance Minister Fleming on Columbia River financing at any time the federal minister sets, Premier Bennett said Thursday.

The date for such talks, he said, "is up to the visitor—we are the hosts, don't set the date."

He was commenting on Mr. Fleming's statement in the Commons in which the federal minister said he has asked Mr. Bennett to meet with him soon to conclude an agreement for financing the $458,000,000 Columbia project.

"B.C. of course, will co-operate to help the federal government carry out treaty obligations on the Columbia. But we expect the cost of Canada's share of downstream benefits will not exceed the 3.77 mills promised by the Hon. Mr. Fulton so many times," the premier said.

LIBERAL WARNS BLACK

'All is Well' Try Won't Be Believed

If Welfare Minister Wesley Black says "all is well" in his department the public will not believe him, a Liberal MLA said in his maiden speech to the Legislature Thursday.

Harry McKay of Fernie also attacked the Workmen's Compensation Board for being arrogant. His over-all address was well received.

He said there is no doubt that social welfare service have deteriorated, referring to statistics disclosed since the resignation of child welfare superintendent Ruby Mackay.

Mr. McKay's attack on the Compensation Board and provincial compensation legislation was the first of this session. In the past year there has been a mounting tide of criticism of both. One of the sorest points is that many applicants have been forced into costly court cases to try to win compensation.

"We can do with a lot less arrogance at the top of that board," said Mr. McKay.

PROCEDURE OUTMODED

He charged that appeal procedure is outmoded and called for an upgrading of pensions awarded some years ago. The loss of a man's leg should not be worth more today than it was a few years ago, he said.

New Attack On Coyne, Canada Bank

TORONTO (CP)—One of the 10 original signatories of a petition to Finance Minister Fleming seeking removal of James Coyne as governor of the Bank of Canada has followed up his action with a book in which he describes the central bank as a grave danger to democratic government in Canada.

H. Scott Gordon, professor of economics at Ottawa's Carleton University, says the bank wields enormous power without responsibility.

The book, The Economists Versus the Bank of Canada, is to be published today by the Ryerson Press.

The book, he says, "has become a free-floating autocracy, a power unto itself, subject neither to government nor to parliament . . ."

In addition, Prof. Gordon says, the central bank is following a policy of "muddle-headed economics" that prevents the federal government from taking effective action to halt the current business recession.

Calling for both change in the bank's management and revision of the Bank of Canada Act, he says restrictive policies and actions of the central bank are damaging Canada's economy, which he described as in a more difficult state than at any time since the Second World War.

The present recession will very likely be the deepest and perhaps will be the longest since the end of the war," he says. "But in the bank's view, inflation is the sole continuous, pervading, ever-present problem.

Even the slight possibility of future price increases is regarded by the bank as far more serious than the clear and present problem of the widespread unemployment."

Prof. Gordon, 36, joined Carleton in 1948, becoming a full professor in 1957. He is a graduate of Dalhousie University, Halifax and Columbia University, New York.

VANCOUVER GOES WILD

Oriana Given 'The Works'

By HAL JONES
Times Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER—One of the most spirited welcomes ever accorded a ship was given the P. and O. Orient liner Oriana when she arrived here Thursday on her maiden voyage.

Thousands of spectators crammed vantage points in Stanley Park and on the docks for a glimpse of the giant 42,000-tonner as she moved majestically up the harbor towards her berth.

ROYAL WELCOME

As Oriana approached Lions Gate Bridge she was met by a flotilla of harbor craft, fishing boats, yachts and cruisers. Some estimates placed the number of welcoming vessels as high as 100. About a dozen aircraft, including a helicopter, buzzed overhead.

Boats whistled and tooted in welcome and once or twice Oriana replied with a deep-throated bellow from her fog horn.

On the dockside were civic dignitaries, two bands and a choir of 150 junior high school girls.

The girls laid on a surprise welcome for Australian song

'MEANEST THIEF'

TORONTO (CP)—Harold K. Sergeant, 39, of Moose Jaw, Sask., was convicted Thursday of stealing $1,100 which a double amputee was saving to buy a pair of artificial legs. He was remanded until Feb. 16 for sentence.

Police testified Sergeant met Frank Lebovitch, an employee of the crippled children's workshop, in a downtown bar Saturday. Lebovitch showed Sergeant the money and as the two men left the bar Sergeant pushed the amputee to the ground and grabbed the money.

Lebovitch, 50, said earlier he had saved the money from his $10-a-week job over the last two years. He lost his legs below the knee in an industrial accident.
